How much do you care ?

With this section we would like to explain as simple as possible how a computer works. With that knowledge we hope that you can then make an educated decision on what Hardware to buy. In the end it is not only about performance but as well about availability and backup solutions that decide what setup works for you and your budget.

Some Diagram made by Draw.io here of hard drives, ssd, nvme, where al is stored, some nics etcetera.

With this introduction to a computer we hope to explain and let people understand what hardware they want to bu
